Poker room is not of one single type. It offers almost all range of games starting holdem through every available variant. Promotional codes are offered for those that are newly registering for a poker room for the first time. The value of the promotion codes varies. The promotional bonus offered through a friend's referral is different from when you find yourself to the poker room through the search engine or some informative article.

Promotion codes to a poker room is also offered by the partner sites or affiliate sites of the main poker room and for such codes the sum offered is like $1 for 10 points or $1 for 15 points based on the affiliate site's regulations. Normally promotional and bonus payouts are not cleared instantly. After a request for withdrawal it may take some time for the site to process your payout; however, in some sites, the bonus is paid off instantly.

Some of the promotional code entries can lead to satellite tournament poker room tables. The winning of such tables can mean a sponsorship to the WPT or WSOP or for whichever tournament the site supports or promotes.

If you have been holding more than two promotional codes from 2 different places like one referral from a friend promotional code and another from an affiliate online poker room, in that case you might be able to use only one to sign up. You cannot use the other promotion code for the same site to make a deposit. It is one person, one promotion code.

If the promotional bonus that you used up to make to the new poker room for the first time is low you may not be able to alternatively sign up with a promotional code of higher value a bit later. Whatever was the value of the promotional code that you used to first sign in to the poker room is considered and not anything that follows that. One promotional code for the first time sign up regardless of how many other codes you have gathered from elsewhere towards the same poker room.

We need to understand that promotional code is a marketing methodology that is used to encourage people to sign up with a new poker room for membership. If you have come to my poker room with one promotion code and have got a membership there is no need for me to give you another code, because the motive of promotional code with being to make you sign up is over with just one and why should I give you one more? Makes sense!
